DETAILED ACTION

1. This application has been examined. This office action is in response to the amendment filed 6/30/03.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371© of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

3. Claims 1,5,6,9,10,15,16,19-21,24,25 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kageyama et al. (5,774,638).

With regard to claim 1, Kageyama et al. teaches a printer (figure 1, items 11 and 18) receiving and printing print data on one page (see fig. 1), the print data being received from a host computer (10) and comprising a plurality of different types of data (see col. 13, lines 57-61), the printer comprising: a separation unit separating the print data into separate sets of data according to the different types of data (e.g. col. 13, lines 57-61); an image buffer (i.e. figure 1, item 141 or 142) having a plurality of storage locations each storage location (i.e. figures 20-26, see also col. 27 and 28 and a storage unit storing each separate set of data in a different one of the storage locations of the image buffer (e.g. col. 3, line 10-20, col. 22, lines 62-67, and col. 23, lines 48-55, see also figure 26); a plurality of video interfaces (i.e. figure 1, items 104,114 and 124), independently reading a respective one of the separate sets of print data stored in a corresponding storage location of the image buffer (reads on figure 1, the interfaces (104,114 and 124) read the data from the shared memory (141) to be processed by the different image processors (107,117 and 127)); a print data integration circuit (reads on figure 1, item 100, which controls the integration of data to be printed by the print engine 18, see col. 3, line 55 thru col. 4, line 11) integrating the separate sets of data the video interfaces (e.g. col. 5, lines 41-53 and col. 29, lines 4-11); and an output mechanism (figure 1, item 18) outputting the integrated print data on one page (i.e. col. 3, line 55 thru col. 4, line 11 and col. 5, lines 41-53).

With regard to claim 4, Kageyama et al. further teaches a printer comprising a plurality of image processing circuits (fig. 1, item 100,110, or 120), each of the image processing circuits applying an image process to the separate set of data read by a corresponding one of the video interfaces (col. 5, lines 42-53).

With regard to claim 5, Kageyama et al. further teaches a plurality of separate sets of data stored in the image buffer are obtained by dividing print data to be printed data on one page into a plurality of bands, each of the bands corresponding to different types of data, and wherein the print data integration circuit alternately selects the separate set of data read by each of the video interfaces and outputs the selected set of data to the output mechanism (e.g. figures 20-24 and col. 5, lines 42-53).

Art Unit: 2624

With regard to claims 6,9, and 10, the limitations of claims 6,9, and 10 are covered by the limitations of claims 2-5 above (e.g. part of the printer of claims 1,4 and 5 consist of the controller as claimed in claims 9 and 0).

With regard to claims 15,16,19-21,24-25 and 30, the limitations of claims 15,16,19-21,24-25 and 30 are covered by the limitations of claims 1,4, and 5 above.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's arguments filed 6/30/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

1. With regard applicant's argument that Kageyama does not teach separating the data to be printed into multiple data sets depending on the type of data comprising the data to be printed. Examiner disagrees with Applicant's argument. Examiner asserts that Kageyama teaches separating the data to be printed into multiple data sets depending on the type of data (see col. 13, lines 57-63).

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
